Jack - Hey Bud!! How's life?? Did this year go fast or WHAT?! And what a year!! Everything that happened - WOW!! I have no idea what to say 'cause I see you everyday (whether I want to or not) and I'm sure I'll see you this summer. You'll have to come over and swim someday when I have my red and white striped bikini and Mickey mouse towel on, okay? See ya around!!

(go to page 62-63)

Love ya,
Michelle

- Jack -
To one of the funniest guys you made Algebra go faster. Please try not to scare too many little kids at the beach with your toe, but if they say anything, tell them a killer Bass did it off. Hope you have a really nice summer, don't worry too hard. Okay? I hope I don't see you in Algebra next year. I just might be in there again. Well, I just say a lot!

Dare

We looked around, and what did we see? The craziness, stupidity, and embarrassing moments which, oddly enough, made us all smile. It was these moments which made those unforgettable memories of our high school years.

"Dare to be different." Archers took this sentence literally. We fought to keep our identities during the year, yet we pulled together when times got tough. We showed others what South was all about.

Never did we say, "We can't". From academics to activities, Archers showed us their stuff. Their individuality was seen through ideas and fashion. Why? Because we dared to be different!

Archers were daring and different in many ways. When we felt something was right and needed no change, we did our best to speak our opinions and dared the world to differ.

Being the last remaining walk-in school, South Side was unique, and we were proud of that fact. Everything that we did was done with a certain spirit, a rare style.

We each gave a part of ourself to South Side, and she gave us something in return. We gave her loyalty, and she gave us friendships, individuality, and pride. With every experience we created a memory; with every memory we left a mark.

We dared to be different. We were one-of-a-kind; we were the Archers.

IVY DAY

Ivy Day is about more than ivy. It is about what ivy has come to symbolize. The plant's ability to grow upward, its tenacity, and its hardness are traits shared by the graduating class. The green of ivy is a sign of life. Mostly the life ahead, but also the life being left behind. The sadness of leaving friends and familiarity is intensified on this day of tradition and ceremony.

Since the spring of 1932, South Side students have had the unique experience of participating in Ivy Day. The 1985 Class didn't get to enjoy an outdoor procession due to rain, but the spirit of the day remained. Superintendent Dr. Anthis and Chris Sanderson, student council president, spoke to the seniors, Susan Laker presented the ivy, and the choirs combined to make the day even more special.

The Ivy Day queen and court was comprised of seniors Carolyn Dowdell, Karen Nichols, Rachel Hewett, Faith Worthman, Jean Lehman, Ginger Giessler, and Lori Stephens. Nina Johnson was the crown bearer. /photo by Watters Reach Out...

"Hello, Mary? This is Monica. Prepare yourself. I have news that you will NOT believe! Gary officially asked me out at 4:17 this afternoon. Is that AMAZING or what?! Now, you have to promise not to tell a soul. I'd die if anyone found out."

"Hey! Did you hear about Muffy and Stan?!"

"No, what?"

"Well, . . ."

Sound familiar? It can be heard just about anywhere, and it has to be one of teenagers' favorite pastimes. The word grabs our interest just as if we were handed a hundred dollar bill. Gossip. It's calorie-free and enjoyable. There are no side effects . . . or are there?

There are varying degrees of gossip, ranging from mildly passive to fatal. Most everybody encounters gossip daily, and everybody has their own ideas and standards about it. Some people thrive on gossip while others have little appetite for it at all. But no matter what your opinion is of gossip, the game becomes no fun when it's about you. That's when it hurts. Gossip can ruin a person's reputation or create one.

Everyone dabbles with this tempting game. It's a sure fire way to become the center of attraction, but the effects are everlasting. So the next time you indulge upon this calorie-free delight, remember the consequences. Gossip—it can be deadly.

WEEKENDS WERE MADE

FOR HAVING FUN

Weekends are looked forward to by many for more reasons than one. There are always things to do and places to go for which the weekdays don't allow time. Some enjoy relaxing at home in front of the T.V. with a bowl of popcorn, but for others it's a part-time job or hours spent with friends.

For the people of South Side, Friday night activities may include football or basketball games followed by a visit to McDonalds or Pizza Hut. Midnight bowling and card games are also popular with many, as are the numerous parties.

Saturday evenings are filled with dancing at the Cowboy or midnight movies, Rocky Horror being a favorite. The Blue Mountain is also often crowded with groups of Archers.

The days are filled with college campus visits, friendly football games, leisurely walks in the park, or the ever popular sleeping.

Weekends can be spent any number of ways, and no matter what is done, they always pass too quickly for all of us.

Seniors, how do you feel? We feel good, oh we feel so good about having the first pep "assembly" of the year. /photo by Wesner

When thinking about "firsts", many things can come to mind: first party, first kiss, first day of work and first date.

Debbie Cook, sophomore, reminisces of her first date. "He was an upperclassman. I was afraid that I would say something stupid, but everything worked out okay."

Another important "first" is the first day of work. Tina Nierman, a senior who works at Lincoln National Bank, remembers being younger than everyone and not knowing what to expect or what was expected of her.

A "first" that is shared by all Archers is the first day at South Side. Jim Fanger, Freshman, had a particular problem with his locker. "There was this couple kissing next to me. I lifted the lever to open the top door, it swung open and hit the guy in the head. I thought I was going to get in my first fight."

There are many "firsts" that happen in our lifetime. Some of them aren't too easily forgotten.

Always and Forever

The smell of fresh flowers filled the air and the sound of soft music rang through the rooms of the gardens. One could see couples walking arm in arm down the path, the gentlemen in tuxedos and the ladies in formal gowns. If this all sounds like a setting in a dream, or a formal dance which one has to be invited to, it was. This was the setting of the 1985 Junior-Senior prom, "Always and Forever."

The prom was held in the Botanical Conservatory. The gardens, which were the perfect setting for the prom, had no need for decoration. The soft lights and music helped make the gardens even more romantic.

Many couples went to the after-prom which was held at Peltz Reception Hall. There they could spend the night dancing, eating refreshments and just enjoying the evening.

The many couples who attended will agree that the 1985 Junior-Senior prom was a night to be remembered "Always and Forever."

The excitement built increasingly. Tension was all around. Then finally, the show of the year arrived. All talent was here to be found.

The Afro-American Club dedicated itself to putting on the "Soul Revue," an annual stage production at South Side. The 1985 show was entitled "The Glamorous Life." Carolyn Dowdell, senior, and Eric Green, junior, were the lead characters though all of the cast members played important roles.

Karen Nichols, senior and president of the club, and senior Steve Tate, vice-president, spent their summer vacations writing the show. Nichols exclaimed, "It's really exciting seeing what we wrote go from paper to stage. It really makes it all worth while!"

The "Soul Revue" was presented on April 12 and 13. Dancing, singing, modeling, rapping, and numerous other talents being performed, brought delight to most of the sell-out crowd Saturday night. Because of this, their show came across as a great success.

Ms. Barbara Jean Davis, sponsor, was the real back-bone behind the operation. She kept the morales up when the cast members began having the inevitable pre-show jitters. "Mama Davis", as the cast called her, commented, "Putting on such shows is a lot of hard work, but once it's over, one feels a great sense of accomplishment."

The funds attained from the show were used to give graduating seniors scholarships to help further their educations. Every year, the money is used in the same manner.

The camaraderie among the club members is ineffable. The talent show is not only a means of entertainment, but an expression of brotherhood. Thate replied, "This is a tradition that should never be broken."

WEST SIDE comes to South Side!

Singing, dancing and excitement can be translated into West Side Story. West Side Story was the first musical to be performed in South Side's auditorium in the past five years.

This difficult musical about two star-crossed lovers was tackled by director Jed Freels, choreographer Dan Harth, vocal coach Christine Shafer, and band director David Streeter.

Long nights were spent practicing, and getting ready for the opening night. Nervousness replaced fear and confidence replaced nervousness. Everyone went on stage and gave it his or her all.

"Choose your weapons," exclaims Riff, senior Doug Rapp, to Bernardo, freshman Jonathan Ashton, as he challenges him to a rumble. /photo by Watters

A lot of hard work went into the production of the 1985 senior play. "Wait Until Dark" was written by Frederick Knott, and it cast only nine characters. Mrs. Jane Langdon, a former English teacher at South Side, directed this year's senior play.

A small group of people spent their every spare moment on the senior play, Saturdays and Sundays included.

"Wait Until Dark" was a suspense-building play set in a little basement apartment in New York City. The apartment belongs to a Suzy (Holly Hunter) and Sam Hendrix (Wade Stinson). Suzy Hendrix is blind, and the plot revolves around the attempts of three con men to retrieve a doll containing heroine that has ended up in the Hendrix's apartment. The first con man poses as an old friend of Sam's by the name of Mike Talman (Mike Rogers). Mike Talman is the kindest of the three to Suzy, and a slight friendship is formed between the two. The second con man poses as a police sergeant by the name of Carlino (Eric Green). Mike Talman and Carlino are later killed by the third man. Roat (Brian Bolton) was the most cold-hearted and villainous man who would stop at nothing, not even murder, to gain possession of the doll. At the very end Roat and Suzy have a struggle, and Roat gets killed; whereupon two policemen (David Hufford and Damien Wiseman) enter, and the nightmare is over.

Throughout the play, Mrs. Lloyd's (Sarah Peebles) nine-year-old daughter, Gloria (Margaret Norton), serves as Suzy's companion and helper while her husband is away. Gloria added the comic relief needed to release the tension of this dramatic play.

On November 22 and 23, "Wait Until Dark" was performed in South Side's auditorium. During the long rehearsals, the cast members got a chance to know each other better. Friendships were made stronger, and memories were created to last a life-time.

A ROYAL EVENING

The theme for the 1985-1986 Homecoming was "A Royal Evening. And that is exactly what many Archers had that night. The evening started out with a bang. The Archer basketball squad provided an exciting game against the Wayne Generals, but defeating the Generals was no easy task. The Archer squad needed one overtime to beat the Generals by a score of 59 to 57.

At half-time, the Homecoming nominees assembled in the Archer gym to be recognized. After the conclusion of the game, the Homecoming Dance was held in the Archer' cafeteria. Unique Lightning and Sound provided the excitement.

Midway through the dance, all was silenced as the court was soon to be named. After the applause ended for the court, silence again fell upon the curious Archers. The King and Queen were soon to be announced. The King and Queen for the 1985-1986 Homecoming were Jeff Livensparger and Anita Mendez, seniors.

After the announcements were made, Unique turned up the music and everyone enjoyed themselves and had a simply "Royal Evening."

School Spirit days have been a tradition for a long time here at South Side High School. They began in hope to show support for the various supports events.

Spirit days usually have a time span of 3-5 days. These for the most part are sponsored by the cheerleaders; yet, student council has been known to sponsor it also.

Nerd Day, College Sweats Day, Funeral Day, Hawaiian Shirt Day, Crazy Green And White Day, and Sunglasses and Hat Day were just a few of the days that were named.

The world in 1985 was characterized by terrorism and steps toward peace, famine moving toward relief, trends and retrends. Musicians from all over the world, gathered for a "Live Aid" concert to benefit famine victims. Reagan and Gorbachev met to discuss a compromise on disarmament and other topics. Meanwhile, the apartheid issue in South Africa remained at a stalemate.

As Aids spread, it's most notable victim was actor Rock Hudson. Boris Becker, 17, was the surprise victor of Wimbledon 85. The "unsinkable" Titanic also showed up again off the coast of Newfoundland.

Here in the U.S., Bill Cosby made a comeback with his number one rated "The Cosby Show". Pee Wee Herman drew many fans for his movie, "Pee Wee's Big Adventure". On a heavier note, William Perry and the Bears became the Super Bowl Champs.

In Fort Wayne, Lutheran Hospital performed it's first heart transplant, and construction began on a new General Motors plant.

In area politics, a referendum to raise taxes to increase school's budgets was voted down, and Mayor Win Moses resigned for eleven days because of campaign finance law violation.

Academics remain an integral part of life's education, and all students can somehow relate to this from their varying degrees of involvement in school. Although the primary purpose of academics is the gathering of knowledge, much else may be learned in the classroom. There are friends to be made, and many experiences to share. These aspects of academics truly form a bond between all students, and holds the education process together.

More Than Just Words

The English department at South Side has many attributes. There are many phases of classroom English and also a few extracurricular activities as well. Though one may get tired of the research paper, the hour long, and the endless amounts of Shakespeare, diversions, such as the viewing of classic videos such as Romeo and Juliet, Becket, and MacBeth help to pass the time. Some students also make the rounds of local plays and speakers, and the yearly trip to the Stratford Shakespeare Festival in Canada. One of the most exciting plays seen this year was Othello.

To have a good English class, you must have access to an efficient library. Our library at South, headed by Mrs. Crum and Mrs. Kirble, tries to fulfill those requirements. They and the student service workers are there to help you find what you need. Many resources are available for student use. Among the books and periodicals, they also have computers, software, and audio-visual equipment.

English is a fascinating world of education to explore.

Archers Recognized

The passing of leadership. Senior Tom Manges steps down from the helm of the Times as junior Mark Clark becomes it's 64th editor. /photo by Watters Recognition is a welcomed word. To those Archers excelling in a particular academic, athletic, or creative arts area, a day is set aside in order to openly recognize their talents. The hard work involved in order to achieve such honors is worth it all when Principal Weicker, administrators, and department heads present trophies, plaques, and certificates to those deserving students.

The first awards to be presented were the Valedictorian and Salutatorian trophies which went to Ernest Stalnaker and Scott Morris, respectively. They, in turn, assisted with the presentation of awards.

The South Side Scholars were announced. They were: Ernest Stalnaker, Scott Morris, Jerry Gerig, Nora Mills, Amy Simon, and Eric Zimmerman.

The R. Nelson Snider Awards for top junior and top sophomore were presented to Joe Deitche and Steve Gersos, respectively. The Top Freshman Award was presented to Matt Elliott.

Many individual departments had banquets during which students were recognized on a more personal level. In addition to athletic banquets, the music department held a potluck and there presented students with their letters, certificates, and individual awards. At the Service Worker Potluck, Lori Stephens, senior, was recognized as Top Service Worker. At the Cooperative Office of Education (COE) banquet, senior Lisa Pena was voted Student of the Year by her fellow COE members. The Quill & Scroll banquet is a traditional time for South Side journalists to gather and to recognize outstanding journalists. Those named as 1985 members of the Quill & Scroll were seniors Sarah Baker, Becky Dougherty, Bob Gilmore, Tom Manges, Scott Morris, Peggy Newton, Adam Sheray, Ron Wise, and Dianne Zelt.

South Side has many reasons to be proud. When a student is recognized for his excellence in a particular area, the school is taking one small step in honoring such a student. Encouragement is a daily need, and the students of South Side High School have their teachers, administrators, and fellow students to thank for fulfilling such a need.

Learning for Living

When people talk about Home Economics, they probably think about cooking. The only time that they have heard of Home Ec. was when a Home Ec. class prepared the food for one of South Side's banquets, so they never looked to see if there were any other courses offered by Home Ec. If they had, they would have found ten courses completely unrelated to food. For instance, South Side offers a Home Ec. class called Singles Living-On your own. This class deals with troubles a person might have once they go out on their own. South Side also offers a course to help people decide how to buy a home and teach them how to decorate it. However, the most popular Home Ec. course is Human Development. This course is so popular that, according to Mrs. Mendenhall, "over one-third of the students here elect to take a Human Development course in their junior or senior year."

How important is Home Ec., though?

Mrs. Mendenhall feels that it is one of the most important classes that a person can take. Sam Young, junior, agreed with Mrs. Mendenhall and said, "I think that Human Development should be a required subject for all students. I think it helps you out once you get out of high school."

The opinion of most Home Ec. students can be summed up by senior Gerald Lamb, "I think you will use what you learn in Human Development everyday of your life."

Practical Skills

In Industrial Arts there are four main categories: Graphic Arts, Wood Working, Metal Working, and Drafting. The purpose of Industrial Arts is to give a good general background in these categories. The skills gained from these classes might take a student into a profession or simply give the student knowledge for everyday life. "Hopefully the student can choose whatever industry they want to go in. We hope to give a broad enough background that they have wide variety to choose from," said Mr. Charlie Kuntz. The other teacher in Industrial Arts is Mr. Tarr, and between the two of them they have about 245 students this year. Usually about 20% of those students go into the advanced classes.

The Math Department at South Side includes in its curriculum such classes as general math, computer math, geometry, Advanced and Fundamental Algebra, trigonometry, analytical, and calculus.

A solid math background is becoming more and more vital for every student's future. Many colleges and universities require more than just the fundamentals from their students. Surprisingly, however, Mr. Sage, math department head, remarked that this year there was a great reduction in the number of seniors taking math classes.

Though disappointed at this fact, Mr. Sage was pleased with the size of the calculus class. He said it was one of the largest and smartest calculus classes he's had in years.

South Side also has an excellent computer math class. Since this class, with its more than 100 terminals spread out through the building, is increasing in popularity, tentative plans are being made to separate it from the math department completely, making it a separate entity.

With the importance of math in society and with South Side's math department being one of the best in the city, there is much reason to believe that South Side's math department will continue to grow as much as it has in the last few years.

Social Studies: Not Just the Past

To some history brings to mind dusty old books and cobwebs in the attic. To others, it may be a heritage to be proud of or a new place and time to discover. Chris Wesner, senior, feels "that Social Studies is an important facet to high school life because learning of the past is a necessity for the future."

History involves an opening of the mind to experience new worlds and cultures that have been oblivious to us before. But history is only one aspect of the social studies.

The overused word "psyche" takes on new meaning when one takes the class. It is a journey through the mind—a chance to question one's being. It is learning to understand our fellow man.

Learning how to handle one's money is another story. Economics is comprised of theories. It is by no means a math class, but rather understanding history through it's financial aspects.

It is amazing that even though our government is quite bureaucratic, Mr. Arnold explains it so that one may easily comprehend it. Our country's base is it's government, and it's nice to know how the government works.

Social Studies is a mirror to the past and a key to the future. Dare to experience it.

Say It in a Foreign Language

The language department is an integral part of the educational program at South Side. In today's world the ability to understand and communicate with people of different nations and cultures is becoming increasingly vital. Taking a foreign language does not simply entail memorizing grammar and vocabulary, but involves becoming fully aware of the history and customs of that country as well. South Side's language department consists of four years of French, Spanish, German, and Latin, each of which initiates its own club. The level of student interest and participation in these clubs motivated the teachers to devote their personal time and energy into supporting this worthwhile experience. These clubs offer foreign language students a chance to investigate and appreciate another culture in a friendly and relaxed atmosphere in addition to the more structured class time. The majority of college bound students are required to complete a minimum of two years of a foreign language, therefore, a great number of students do participate in a language class at some point in their high school career. Between class time, and the extracurricular activities, South Side invites its foreign language students to explore the music, food, history, and literature of a country, and truly get a taste of its culture.

The Special Education Department assists students in reaching their educational goals. Students in the program have a variety of handicaps ranging from speech impediments to specific learning disabilities. Each student at South Side is unique and students with special needs are provided an appropriate education.

Students may receive assistance in specific subject areas such as English and Math or in areas such as speech development. Other students may receive help in adapting to a physical handicap through resource personnel or special equipment.

Individual programs are developed according to the special needs of each student. The assistance provided in the different areas only makes up a small portion of the student's total course load. The program meets the special needs of special people.

We Are Your Type

When you're deciding what to do in life, there is one thing our teachers and parents keep pounding in our heads "Be Prepared". That is exactly what students are doing here at South. By taking business courses they are developing and training themselves to handle any kind of job situation from being a secretary to owning their own business.

There are many classes from which to choose. General business, typing, and shorthand to name a few. Junior Jeanne Crandell said, "I took shorthand because I knew it would help me take notes in my college prep courses."

Most students think that people take business classes because they're an easy credit. Not true! Students here have many other reasons. Typing, for instance, will help sophomore Lisa Heredia prepare for college, and accounting will come in handy when budgeting money for college or even when applying for a loan. Even if one has no plans for a career in business, the classes can be very useful.

"Oops, I made another mistake," states Jody Hartsock, sophomore, as she realizes typing isn't all fun and games. /photo by Wesner

Art . . . Expression Through Design

Whether you're taking a serious beginning course for fun, or taking a serious advanced course, or are, as many Archers, just an observer of work, we all must admit that South Side has an excellent Art Department, headed by Mr. Roberts.

"I am in second year Art, and I've found Mr. Roberts and Mr. Jacquay to be excellent at teaching this subject. I'm really enjoying it," says sophomore Jinnt Jenny Hawfield.

Third and fourth year students use advanced materials and techniques through exploration and specialization. Some of these advanced materials include wood, metals, and plastics.

"I try to help my students be as creative as possible. My goal is to promote art not only as a career, but as a life-long hobby," claims Mr. Jacquay, who has been teaching here at South Side for seven years.

Learning a Trade

RVS, the Regional Vocational School at South Side, offers an alternative to the traditional high school curriculum. For those students not planning on attending college, this vocational program prepares them with a skilled trade that reaches beyond high school training. The majority of students participating in the RVS program intend to continue their education in a two year technical school after which they are usually guaranteed a job. Participation in the RVS program involves half a day of hands on work experience in addition to the remaining half day of regular high school classes. This plan invites students interested in a vocational career choice to begin advancement in their field of interest before graduating. It also teaches them to cope with the present work force realistically and acquaints them with the responsibilities that accompany a permanent job. RVS furnishes the chance for students to become knowledgeable and qualified in a field of their choice, and boosts them quickly into the working world.

Easing Into a New Lifestyle

LAU is a class that serves the percent of South Side's student body to whom English is not a native language. It concentrates on familiarizing these students with the English language as well as American customs and characteristics. In a sense it is a group support system for each individual built in an effort to ease the transition of assuming a foreign lifestyle. LAU offers a place for students to learn with others in the same position and of similar background. The class tries to surface and deal with any confusion or difficulty one may have in adjusting, or answer any questions that may arise. LAU is a very important and special class to South Side, and has helped expand the student body in reaching and aiding foreign students in their efforts to understand the English language.

Bounce! The student hurries after the loose ball. Physical education is an important part of every student's education and well being during his high school years.

Mrs. Widmann said, "It is important that the student participates. It directs some of his aggression towards sports rather than other people. If a student doesn't have a well balanced body and mind, they could crack under any kind of pressure."

"I think gym is great in that you can get up from sitting in a classroom all day and get some exercise and feel a lot better," explained sophomore, Todd Kabisch.

This is the first time in ten years that Mr. Flynn has taught physical education. "The main thing in teaching gym is that we are trying to introduce some not so popular sports such as raquetball, pingpong, tennis, volleyball, and track. We hope that the student gets interested and wants to pick these sports up and maybe try them in intramurals."

A couple of classes that are offered to juniors and seniors are PE 5&6 and bodybuilding. Mike Rine, junior, says "bodybuilding is one of the best classes that I have ever taken. You can go down and work as hard as you possibly can and come out feeling like you're on top of the world."

Extras for Life

Health and Safety, Speech, Skills For Living, and Drivers Education are the classes Freshman and Sophomores are required to take opposite gym.

During Freshman year, students are required to take Gym one semester and Health and Safety, combined with Drivers Education, the other semester. Each class is nine weeks in length. Health and Safety is concerned with basic personal hygiene and first aid. Driver Education prepares students for future driving experiences.

During the Sophomore year, Gym is still required along with Speech and Orientation. Speech is a basic introduction to speaking, giving students many opportunities to overcome their fears of public speaking. Skills for Living, better known as Orientation, focuses on helping students acquire self-discipline, responsibility, good judgement and an ability to get along with themselves and others.

These special courses are worth one-half credit each. Together they make up the required credit one needs opposite Gym. Though they might not seem important at the time, these courses help develop us as individual persons.

The Jazz Band, directed by Mr. David Streeter, is of some of the best musical talent at South Side. "This year's band is big," according to Mr. Streeter. The variety of music played ranges from the older sound of Duke Ellington to the more modern Maynard Ferguson.

In addition to the concerts for the school, several contest were scheduled for 85-86 Jazz Band. They competed at such contests as ISSMA, Elmhurst, and Ball State.

"Jazz Band offers more freedom of expression than concert band," according to sax player Joel Haffner, senior. Individual solo work is encouraged and often expected among its members. The Jazz Band makes music fun and from the reaction of their audiences, those who listen enjoy their creative efforts as well.

"Let's Dance!" That was the title of the first song in this years swing choir show. And dance they certainly did!

The Archer Association, South's swing choir, started practicing early this year beginning in the last week of August. They spent three days a week learning the song and the choreography that went with it.

Practices continued into the school year every day after school under the direction of Ms. Shafer. Rhonda Tagtmeyer, a graduate of South taught the dance steps.

Their noticeable red and black uniforms may have resembled something from "V", but that set the Archer Association apart from South's other choirs.

When asked how she liked swing choir, Tammy Smith, senior, said, "Even though it was my first year, I really enjoyed myself. It feels so good to get up there and dance and sing in front of everyone after all the work after school."

Sing It, Baby!

Under the guidance of choir director, Ms. Christie Shafer, this year's choirs had a successful season.

There are four choirs in all with the addition of independent study.

Independent study is where the students work alone or with someone in individual projects. Teachers are there for help, but this is suppose to stimulate individual talent and creativity.

Varsity choir, especially for freshmen, work on songs and a few dance routines to perform at concerts.

Vocal Ensemble is more of a jazzy group. Consisting of all girls, this choir performs to more up beat music that lends itself to song and dance combinations. However, this group, as Ms. Shafer states, "will hopefully be a new group comprised of both girls and guys by the time of our spring concert." This group is by audition and recommendation only.

The Concert Choir is more of a traditional choir consisting of both guys and girls. The music is good, yet there is little dancing involved. Any one can sign up for Concert Choir.

The respect and involvement has come a long way from previous years. According to Ms. Shafer, "We hope it keeps going!"

ave yourself a merry little Christmas," sings sophomore Sheila Miller and senior Rhonda Briggs during the winter concert. A few members of each choir were mixed together to wish a joyous holiday.

Is there really life after marching band? Well . . . does concert band fill the bill? The change of musical style is certainly a drastic one, and the music itself is much different. The amount of physical input is not as strenuous, but the musicians still put a lot of time with the music.

Don't get me wrong. All of these students don't spend their entire time playing concert music, they quite happily and easily transform themselves into a snappy pep band. Yes, those enthusiastic, loud and crazy kids wearing those funny green shirts and playing that catchy music in the bleachers are really the concert band in disguise.

But the man who made this all possible is the one and only Mr. David Streeter, the guy who takes everything in stride (even the freshman band) including the night of the concert when everyone else is falling apart. He's that masterful man who always looks "just right" in front of "all them band folk".

Indeed, the band members deserve a lot of credit for their time and for all of the school spirit they present through their music. Thank you band.

The orchestra is yet another musical class at South Side that any student, be it freshman or senior, can join. This class is conducted by Mr. David Streeter who also conducts the school's other bands. The purpose of orchestra is quite simple: it allows certain students to use their time and talent to perform Bach and similiar music.

This year the orchestra consists of eight violins and four cellos. Mr. Streeter was quoted as saying, "With more depth and balance, as well as a consistency in members, the orchestra program is improving yearly."

A successful year was enjoyed by this talented group, and the highlight was their performance at the Fort Wayne Embassy in March during the FWCS Showcase Concert Series.

High Stepping and Showing Colors

South Side High School's Color guard this year is smaller than the past few years, but it has accomplished much. What the guard does during the winter is perform during halftime at basketball games. However, the Guard is more popular on the marching field adding general effect points to the Marching Green Machine's show. The choreography was created by Ms. Christine Shaffer and the flag routine was taught by Karen Kurtz, the flag instructor.

Mary Ann Landon, flag captain for two years has this to say, "Overall, I think this Guard has done a great job this year. We have more enthusiasm than we have had in the past three years I have been here." Mr. David Streeter, band director, thinks of the Guard in this way, "Although this year's Guard was smaller than the past and got off to a slower start, what they've lacked in size, they have made up more in ability."

"I think I'll change my address to South Side High School!", was a statement made by more than one band and guard member last summer and early fall. This was most commonly heard at 2:35 p.m. Friday or 8:30 a.m. Saturday when 95 tired people were waiting for their prestigious leader, Mr. Streeter. But all of those long hours of hard practice paid off.

Yes, marching band takes many many hours of practice, but the rewards are even more memorable. The people who are band or guard members become more than friends, they become part of your family. When you are with someone nine to twelve hours a week in band class, after school, and on the week-end you learn a lot about the people around you.

This year's marching music included selections from the group "Earth, Wind, Fire."

Activities

Beside the regular school day of 8:00 am to 2:35 pm, Archers take part in many activities. Getting involved and being involved is part of South Side's Pride. Engaging in club or sport activities relieves some of the tensions the school day creates, and offers the chance to spend time with friends or to make new ones. Extracurricular activities offer the chance to express one's interests and to enjoy the company of others who do, too.

& Fun

Student Council Gets Involved

Student Council got off to a slow start this year because of the delay of the hay ride, but after the success of Homecoming things started to pick up. Besides Homecoming, other activities included pep sessions to boost school spirit, the annual canned food drive, secret pals, a breakfast for the teachers, and a spring hay ride.

This year's Student Council officers sponsored by Mr. Robert Gernand, consisted of seniors Rodney Cavender, President; Gerald Lamb, Vice-President; Kim Plasterer, Secretary; and Peter Myers, Treasurer.

Every year the Council sends a student to the Student Leadership Institute held at Indiana University in Bloomington. This year's delegate to the Institute was Rodney Cavender. This was a one week camp in which leadership skills are learned and practiced.

Peter Myers summed up this year's Student Council by stating, "Even though we had trouble with the hay ride, I feel that this has been a very good year in which we accomplished a great deal."

Mr. Kelly, infamous speech team coach, sent South Side's creme de la creme off to faraway and unknown places nearly every Saturday. About fifty students trudged sleepy-eyed to a school bus to travel to schools scattered across northeastern Indiana.

Speech is one of the longest of school sessions, lasting from October to April. Throughout this six month period, there are sixteen meets including district, regionals, state, and NFL solos. The team practiced for the following categories: drama, humor, extemp—U.S. and foreign, original oratory, oratorical interpretation, poetry, radio, impromptu, and discussion.

The speech team exhibited and challenged some of South Side's finest students. It took practice, dedication, talent, and patience in order to do well, but the awards and rewards were there for the taking. The speech team was a good way to achieve and to show accomplishment. South Side's speech team is something that everyone can be proud of.

The Distributive Education Club Of America, or D.E.C.A., allows South Side students interested in the finer, more specific areas of business to gain an education. This club was established to provide training for students in the general fields of marketing and distribution. Specific areas of study include sales, advertising, interviews, and public speaking. Students learn these trades from club activities, such as the decorated hall showcase, classroom instruction, and actual on-the-job training which coordinates all material learned to prepare for the future.

Cooperative Office Education, or C.O.E., is a course that gives Senior business students a chance to actually participate in a real office position during the school year. To join C.O.E. the students need a background experience or training for the type of work they will be doing on-the-job. The majority of the students work at clerical typing jobs. C.O.E. students still participate in their morning classes but do their office work in the afternoon.

These students do receive pay for their work. The more successful workers might be hired permanently by their employer after graduation. Cooperative Office Education is a very good course decision, especially if someone is planning for the future. It helps to develop and train students who are going directly into a business position.

Tour Guides

It's night. You're in the school, and you're lost! What to do? The easiest thing would be to find a distinguished looking person in a green vest. These people, who are chosen by Mrs. Gooden, have the honor of being tour guides. Mrs. Gooden picks seniors whom she thinks will represent the school well.

Guides can be seen at any school event where unknowing people decide to brave the winding halls of South. This year, they helped during VIP day, Higher Education Day, Back-to-School Night, and were particularly helpful during the Referendum voting in December.

Administration thanks went to these people for all the hard work they have put in and for representing the school so well. Hopefully in years to come tour guides will maintain the pride in South Side displayed by the guides of 1985-1986.

Tutors

The duty of a tutor can be affected in many ways: snow, rain, or violent thunderstorms. Regardless of the weather conditions, a loyal tutor will come to the aid of elementary students at various schools. The responsibilities of the tutor are great, and the child begins to idolize his or her tutor. One never exactly knows what he or she will be helping a child with. The usual studies include math, cutting, reading, and science.

The tutors club, started by Mr. Dan Boylan, has been a long tradition at South Side. Tutors from South Side play a major role in the lives of these elementary students. Tutors not only provide their students with extra instruction but they become friends with the students and share their happiness as well as their disappointments.

Afro-American

The Afro-American Club, one of the oldest clubs at South Side, strongly believes in tradition. According to Mrs. Davis, Mr. Wiecker has always allowed a club of this stature to function with much of his support.

Mrs. Davis, who has sponsored the club for 5-years, says, "The whole purpose of the club is to look at black heritage, to erase stereotypes, and to present programs that show diverse beliefs, thoughts and opinions, and at the same time to express, Pride, Loyalty, Tradition, Respect, Responsibility, and Spirit." When asked how she viewed her club objectively, Mrs. Davis replied, "It's a part of you and I feel it's a necessity, since there are no Black History classes taught at the present time."

One of the largest club functions is the annual Soul Revue, which has helped to raise money to give scholarships to worthy hard working students. Along with giving scholarships, the club has been known for donating to the Ethiopia Famine Relief Fund, United Negro College Fund, The United Way, and helping out a great deal with the Christmas Bureau.

Rifle Club

Since the 1940's, the Rifle Club has been one of the traditions that makes up South Side. Mr. Hullinger and Mrs. Kump worked together to make this a great year. The officers were President, Rodney Ware, sophomore; and juniors Becky Hewett, Vice-President; Karla Miller, Secretary; and Kelly Sewell, Treasurer.

The 1985-86 school year was the first that the club was sanctioned by the National Rifle Association (NRA). To be sanctioned the NRA recorded each student's score and registered it with the National Organization. The club used the basic NRA Junior Rifle Club rules. South had varsity, freshmen, and girl's teams.

Every year the club competes with other schools in the Tri-State in marksmanship matches. The team then goes to the state match held at Purdue in the spring.

South Side's Soccer Club played again this year, under the direction of faculty representative Francis Mustapha. The Soccer Club competed in both indoor and outdoor soccer and the Winter-Cup, a competition in indoor soccer. Last year South took third place in this competition. Can the team do it again this year? Last years coach, Ed Kraynak said, "They have the potential to go to the top." Our faculty representative and coach Francis Mustapha was more assured; he said, "We are going to be number one this year!"

Even if the team doesn't become #1 this year, they will have represented South with dignity. Being just a club, the team had to raise all of its money without financial support from the school. The team sold crystals early in the year and engaged in another project later. This club, governed by Wesley LaRue as President, Khanh Duong as Vice-President, Paul Fuighum as Secretary and Craig Cantello as Treasurer, showed great perseverance and came out on top.

Francais

The French Club got off to a great start with the first meeting having been set up to resemble a Paris café. Most of the twenty-five members attended and were said to have had a good time.

The enthusiastic club this year planned many activities. They made crepes, went caroling, ate at Pizza Hut, and basically had a lot of fun meeting new people.

Mrs. Wynn, the club's sponsor, said, "Things went really well this year. We had a lot of fun and everyone got involved. I told the students to take care of the plans and they all did a great job."

The officers this year were President, Gayle Miller, senior; Vice-President, Barb McCann, senior; Secretary, Kathy Hostetter, junior; and Treasurer, Joe Dietche, senior.

When asked about French Club, freshman Jim Catlin said, "It was a lot of nice people getting together to have a good time and make new friends. I really enjoyed myself."

Deutsch

This was the second year of the South Side German Club. It was sponsored by Mrs. Pamela Houk, German teacher. The chancellor of the club was Derek Ball and the committee chairmen were Becky Osterman, Fidel Infante, Frances Hughes, Patrick Herzog, Skip Ahmad, Amy Kohler, Dawn Kolkman, and Adrienne Blessing. The club consisted of thirty-one students, the vast majority of whom were enrolled in German classes.

The club's first event was a Halloween Party complete with costumes and decorations. In December the club had a German potluck dinner.

The activities planned for the remainder of the school year included cross-country skiing, miniature golf, and a spring picnic.

Latina

Latin is traditionally "the language of learning," and it was alive and well at South Side High School.

Headed by Brian Hutner as president, Mark Clark as vice-president, and Matt Elliot and Beth Felger as secretary and treasurer respectfully, the Junior Classical League met each month to have fun as well as discuss the activities of the oldest club at South Side.

According to Miss Holtmeyer, the club advisor, JCL enhances classroom activities. Every year the JCL holds a fall picnic, a December holiday dinner, and a Roman Banquet in the spring. In addition to their December festivities, each year JCL adopts a family who wouldn't normally have very happy holidays, giving them food, clothing, toys and the feeling that someone in the world cares.

Hi-Y

Though HI-Y had a slow start in the beginning, it had a very successful year. They started the year with a leaf raking expedition. The money earned from this accumulation with $114 the club started out with was enough money for HI-Y's major project to be a success. This project was to update and complete the nameplates for the Quarter Century Club. In January, HI-Y sponsored the Red Cross Blood Mobile. Coming to South Side, the Red Cross tried to reach its annual goal of receiving 100 units of blood from South Side students.

HI-Y also combined with PHILO in several affairs. One was an open gym in which volleyball teams competed. The two clubs also joined forces in creating a dance. Instead of a Queen of Hearts dance, which HI-Y had always done in the past, a King of Hearts dance was arranged. The officers of HI-Y were: Joe Deitche, President; Tim Sheppard, Vice President; Blake Heemsoth, Treasurer; John Stanutz, Secretary; and Mark Clark, Sergeant at Arms.

Philo

This year Philo got off to a booming start with the seniors and sophomores beating the juniors and freshman in an exciting and tough match in the annual Powder Puff football game. To show their appreciation, Philo invited everyone who helped make the game a success to a special potluck Christmas party.

For something new this year, Philo joined in with Hi-Y to sponsor a King of Hearts Dance and a gym night. In order to choose the most irresistible junior and senior guy, a certain day was chosen as Mr. Irresistible Day. This day proved to be very interesting as the guys tried to persuade their favorite junior and senior girls into talking to them. Philo members also volunteered much of their time to such projects as decorating nursing homes, baking cookies for teachers, and working at the Haunted Forest at Franke

Park.

This year's officers were President, Tammy Smith; Vice-President, Melanie Kratzman; Secretary, Gayle Miller; and Treasurer, Holly Hunter. Serving as program chairman was Tammy Greider and as junior representative, Debbie Thatcher. Thanks to Mrs. Joan Varketta, sponsor, and all the members; Philo had a very successful year.

Aren't you impressed by my originality I expressed in signing your yearbook? You're lucky I signed it at all!! (Just joking!) You're my bud and ya know it and you probably always will! Won't that be NEAT? I really HATE signing year books 'cause I NEVER know what to say 'cept have a GREAT summer and all that and EVERY ONE writes that!! And, as you know, I'm not like everyone else so I won't tell you that. Go to Page 14.

It will prob'ly be a NORMAL summer anyhow, and won't that just be nifty?!

Lead Continues to Please

Where were you early every Friday morning? While most of you were probably stretched out in your bed, half a sleep, and giving thanks that it's Friday, a dedicated group of students had already gathered in the Greeley Room, been energized and were discussing future Project LEAD objectives.

"The unique thing about Project LEAD is that everything is planned, organized, and presented by the students. Our goal is to create an awareness of student leaders and how important they can be in today's society," said junior Kathy Hostetter. Although there were no elected officers of the club, there were several students who attended leadership conferences. These students included; Rose Campbell, Gerald Lamb, Renata Page, Jim Streby, Sarah Deputy, and Kathy Hostetter. Mr. Thomas Gordon, Mrs. Zalas, and Sharon Lechner from Big Brothers/Big Sisters were the adult advisors to the group of 35-40 regular members.

This year Project LEAD's activities ranged from selling green and white helium balloons to helping with the canned food drive sporting the slogan "KIDS CARE TOO!" And they do care . . . at least this bunch does.

S.A.D.D.: "The up and coming club." With the initial meeting consisting of approximately 90 enthusiastic Archers, Students Against Driving Drunk quickly became South Side's largest club. And with the ever interesting Mike Mortensen as president, few members complained about the early Wednesday mornings.

S.A.D.D.: "We're against the combination of drinking and driving." Students against Driving Drunk promoted awareness of the dangers of drunk driving—not just drinking and not just driving. S.A.D.D. proved to South Side High School that a large percentage of Archers are concerned about this very real problem. S.A.D.D. made posters supporting the band, sponsored the first dance of the year, passed out S.A.D.D. buttons, and had a student organize lock-in.

S.A.D.D. had to overcome many

obstacles in its second year of existence: the loss of a great president, opposition and the problems it created from different groups, and the trials and errors of a club newly started. But S.A.D.D. still proudly carries the message "Friends Don't Let Friends Drive Drunk" in hopes that drunken driving will soon be halted.

South Side tasted a bit of culture from around the world this year. Five countries and two continents we represented by six foreign exchange students. AFS sponsored Aya Takagi and Antonella Trinchero, and the other exchange students enjoyed the fun AFS had to offer.

AFS, the American Field Service, sponsors a foreign exchange student each year by raising money through the sale of chicken wires, Santa grams, and other candied notes. To top it all off, AFS sponsors yearly outings—last year's being a trip to Chicago to see "Cats."

While raising money and trying to secure the stay of the exchange students, AFS had a laidback approach. This was evident in the announcements and the themes the meetings had, such as the un-Christmaslike Hawaiiin Bash.

President Melissa Livensparger asked for volunteers to join a Big Brother/Big Sister type group to encourage more involvement between the students and the foreign exchange students. She commented, "It was a great chance for everyone to get to know each other and to do things together."

An Archer makes commitments, while a loser makes promises. An Archer respects those who are superior to him and tries to learn from them, while a loser resents the superiority of others and tries to find chinks in their armor.

An Archer says, "I am not as good as I ought to be", while a loser says, "I am not as bad as others." An Archer also says, "I fell", while a loser says, "Somebody pushed me."

The Archers dared to be different. They dared to be better sportsmen. Throughout the year, the many fine athletes overcame defeat and victory with proudness. The Archers were always ready to prove that they were WINNERS!

Corner

State . . .

The 1985 Varsity Girl's Track Team realized its tremendous potential this season by sweeping the Sectional, Regionals, and ultimately, State Titles in the I.H.S.A.A. With most of this year's State team returning next year, the Archer girls have an extremely good chance of repeating their victory. It would be South's second state title in a row, and its third in seven years.

The champion team consisted of juniors DeDe Nathan, Trudy McCloud, Cori Kelso, and Anita Mendez, as well as senior Janet Hayden. During the regular season, South only dropped two meets. At State, a total of 50 points were amassed by double champion Nathan, McCloud, and Kelso. Hayden and Mendez also performed well, but fell short of earning state points.

Nathan won the 100 and 300 meter hurdles, and placed fourth in the long jump. She set two state records and three school records. McCloud placed third in the 100, 200, and 400 meters. She set two school records. Kelso placed second in the shot put and set two school records. Mendez, who placed eighth overall in the mile, also set a school record.

One of the major factors in South's success is its girl's track coach, Roberta Widmann. When asked about her champions, Widmann said, "Hard work, pride, dedication, and perseverance characterized the 1985 team. I am proud of them as athletes and as individuals, and it is a pleasure to coach such a fine group of young women."

ARCHER TRACKS

Though the team was small, they gave it their all. The enthusiasm was high, and the outlook was for the best, but the lack of people forced the team to give points to the other teams. Of the 15 team members, ten lettered, of which six are returning, and meaning that the strengths aren't leaving.

"You can't give 100%. If you give 150%, the coaches will be more than happy," commented Coach Bartkiewicz to the team to keep them working hard. In the weightroom, Coach Bartdiewicz made sure that everyone realized "No pain, no gain".

Letters were awarded to Alan Fett, Jerry Gerig, David Mendez, and Chad Ware, seniors; Eddie Anderson, Harvey Gibson, juniors; Freddell Anderson, David Druhot, Steve Davis, and Darnall Grant, sophomores. Most Valuable player was awarded to Gerig, and Coach Garcia worked with him to get him through sectionals to regionals. The Coach's Award was awarded to Eddie Anderson, while Most Improved was awarded to Freddell Anderson.

"We worked hard and achieved little, but more than personal satisfaction. We always had a way of finding the fun in our season," commented Coach Garcia.

GIRL . . .

When the 1985 season rolled around, the Lady Archers wondered what the team would be like after losing four graduated varsity members. With three remaining varsity members, juniors Betsy Colvin and Julie Dorman at No. 1 and No. 2 singles, and senior Claudine Anderson at No. 3 singles, including new varsity members juniors Gina Nierman and Holly Hunter at No. 1 doubles, and seniors Kristie Malott and Toyna Sanders at No. 2 doubles, the team played through the season fairly well.

There was a lot of learning throughout the year with eight new members joining the reserve squad. The squad consisted of junior Josette McPike, sophomores Whitney Bish, Lynn Cavender, Becky Clark, Beth Felger, Pam Reuille, and freshmen Amy Kohler and Melissa Livensparger. The team and Coach Horton were glad to receive so many new members.

According to varsity member Betsy Colvin, "I was really glad to see all the new members come out. With a lot of practice and hard work, the ladies team can have an inspiring future."

BASES LOADED

The 1985 Archer Baseball season started with high expectations. With four seniors and several returning lettermen in the lineup, South was to be one of the best teams around the city. Even though the team could not win consistently, the Archers played several great games, including upsets of State ranked Warsaw and Harding. The Archers lost to Bishop Dwenger in the first round of Sectionals.

South's pitching was led by senior James Gilbert who threw the first no hitter in five years for South against Homestead. Other key leaders for South were John Hoffman, varsity catcher for four years, and senior Mike Preston.

Several players earned post-season recognition for South. Senior Steve Christie, who combined good hitting and defense, was a first team ALL-SAC candidate in left field. Gilbert and Preston received second team honors, while Hoffman was honorable mention.

"In spite of the disappointments, we played well against many competitive teams. I wish the season could have lasted through the summer," commented Coach Fireoved.

SAND TRAPPED

The 1985 Golf team, under the helm of veteran Coach Melton, experienced a season of both ups and downs. Even with three lettermen returning from a strong team the previous year, the loss of Pete Gemmer and Todd Anderson, both ALL-SAC competitors, to graduation was devastatingly felt.

After a slow start and losing six of their first eight matches, the linksters bounced back to win five in a row including a very impressive third place finish at the SAC match. However, the team could not keep their streak alive as they lost their last two matches and slipped from third to fourth in the final SAC-Standings.

The team was led through the season by number one player J. D. Chesterman, junior. Because of his outstanding play all year, Chesterman was selected to the ALL-SAC team. Jon Schlegel, junior, and George Baldus, senior, contributed consistent play in their second year of varsity action while Pat Shuler, sophomore, and Tom Manges, senior, were awarded varsity letters.

Schlegel quoted, "Even though our 7-8 record didn't show it, we were a good team. We proved this in the SAC match by beating some very talented teams."

South's Pride

"Desire, perseverance, and attitude are ingredients to produce a well-rounded athlete and scholar," commented Football Coach John Hester.

These three characteristics were all demonstrated by South's teams which showed improvement at all levels, especially on varsity and reserve.

The varsity squad began its season in the exhibition Jamboree against class 5A State contender Snider. The Archers, although heavy underdogs, stayed tough yet lost 7-0. Midway through the season, South faced North Side in a battle for the Totem Pole, a tradition for the two schools. The Archer gridders recaptured the Pole in a shootout. When the regular season ended, South looked forward to the first-ever Sectional play off. In their first game, they stunned Elmhurst in an exciting fourth quarter comeback. The Archers were downed by Harding in the semi-final round.

The reserve squad, composed of a few freshmen, sophomores, and juniors, also achieved a banner year. Todd Kabisch, Carlton Mable, and Tony Easley led an offense which engineered impressive victories over North Side, Bishop Luers, and Harding. Key members of the reserve squad also promise to figure prominently in varsity competition next year.

Field Goals

South Side's freshman football team enjoyed a great success in 1985 for the second year in a row, offering a promising future for the varsity program.

Although the challenge of getting started on the first level is often difficult, the freshmen took this in stride, marching to a second place record in the SAC of 5-2. En route to this impressive record, the Archers defeated three tough foes of Bishop Dwenger, Norwell, and Snider.

Many considered the freshmen defense to be a vital source to their achievements. Carl Hill, freshman, commented, "The awesome sticking power of the defensive backs was the key to our great success." Yet, South was also led by a potent offense, which featured Adrian Mable at quarterback, and Lamar Smith playing at running back, both potential varsity contributors in the future.

As well as upholding Archer tradition with their excellent record, the freshman team learned a great deal concerning matters off the field and on.

NETMEN SUCCESSFUL

With five lettermen returning, the boy's tennis team had high hopes when looking toward this season. The team turned these hopes into a solid winning record.

The team was led by the strong "1-2" punch of ALL-SAC singles players Joe Deitche and Guido Dietz, seniors. Both finished with victorious records. Sophomore Matt Elliott earned his way to an 11-2 mark at the No. 3 singles position.

The two doubles' teams were a strong addition to the Archer cause. At the No. 1 doubles position were ALL-SAC John Stanutz and Tim Sheppard, seniors. The No. 2 doubles team were spirited Mark Clark and Jon Schlegel, seniors. Sophomore Scott Dyer filled in when called upon.

Both of the netman's losses were incurred at the hands of Bishop Dwenger. Clark reflected the feelings of the team in saying, "We won a lot of matches convincingly this year, but didn't accomplish our goals of a City and Sectional Titles." Coach Rick Hanauer summed up his fifth year as the Archer's mentor with his thought, "We had a lot of fun this year, but just couldn't get the big points against Dwenger."

Run, Run . . .

Running, running, and more running—was the schedule for the Cross Country teams this year.

The girl's team, who run a 2.5 mile race, have been performing and running even harder this year. The boy's team, who run a 3.1 mile race, had a lot of difficulties because of a lack of interest. However, both teams practiced hard and maintained good attitudes throughout the season.

The Girl's team was honored by an All-Conference runner, senior Anita Mendez who placed fourth. Mendez has earned this honor for the past three years.

Coach Roberta Widmann announced that this would be her last year coaching the girl's team. "I wish I could stay, but I need more time to do other things. However, I will continue with track," commented Widmann. Senior captain Mendez commented, "I am sorry to see Mrs. Widmann leave because she has taught me everything about running and more. The new coach will have a great team to work with next year."

When asked about the boy's team, senior captain Gene Cobbs added, "The lack of people killed us tremendously, but Coach helped us to overcome that problem." Chuck Clendenen, graduate of Harding, was this year's new coach. "I hope more guys will come out for cross country next year," commented Clendenen.

The lack of people on the boy's team made it difficult to have a team score; therefore, there is no final scoreboard for the team.

“Beat That . . .

Throughout the season, the team thought that this was one of the best seasons they have had. A big part of the success was due to the new Coach, Lori Johnson. This was Johnson's first year coaching a volleyball team. "I think coaching the girl's volleyball team was a learning and exciting experience," commented Coach Johnson.

The Varsity team had a great quantity of individual talent which was used to the fullest to make a winning team. The main problem throughout the season was a lack of teamwork. On the other hand, the highlight was winning the Whitko Tournament. This was the first time in South Side's history that a volleyball team had ever won a tournament.

Senior Captain Cori Kelso commented, "The team would have played better if there had been better attitudes toward winning and losing." She thought that the new coach brought a lot of new improvements. "Coach Johnson had a great deal of confidence in each individual player and everlasting patience," commented Kelso about the new Coach.

Through the . . .

Paced by the strong performance of seniors Cori Kelso, DeDe Nathan, and junior Shelia Weir, the girls' basketball team dribbled to a successful season with first-year head Coach, Mr. Bill Walker. "The only real disappointment was that we didn't win as many games as we could have," commented Coach Walker.

The team adjusted well and quickly to the new Coach. "There was a lot more discipline than we had before," commented Weir. Nathan added, "The team enjoyed the addition of the new Coach and a few new players." The team also enjoyed big moments during the season by defeating Heritage and Norwell for the first time.

The team was honored this year by two ALL-SAC players. Nathan made the 1st team honors, while Kelso made 2nd team honors. Both were voted by opposing Coaches. Nathan has had this honor for the past three years, while Kelso has had team honors for the past two years.

Bouncing Around

The varsity boy's basketball team was weighed down by adversity during an up-and-down season. Although the team won the first three games, it owed little of its success to the pre-season. The Cagers had to battle illness, grades, and coach-player confrontations at the season's start.

Regardless of its record, the team was competitive in almost every game. The difference in almost every game was found in how well the Archer's offense succeeded. The team often used full-court press, man-to-man, and zone half-court defense to stop opponents.

Archer Coach Mr. Terry Flynn commented on the season that, "Talent wise, we could have stayed with just about everyone, but we needed to work a little harder than our opponents to get over the hump to win."

Hoop Time

The Reserve and Freshman teams gave the Archer fans something to look forward to by posting fine records this season. Both teams were blessed with height on the front line and good quickness in the back court players.

The Reserve team was at times weakened when players were pulled up to the varsity squad. Despite the adversity, the team played well and gained the valuable experience for next year.

The Freshman team was an extremely tall squad that will represent South Side very well in the years to come. Adrian Mable, Clifford Cleveland, and Carl Hill, freshmen, were bright spots for the team and will likely be heard of on the varsity squad. Freshman Coach Jeff Lee quoted, "We had a lot of talented players who just need to work on their attitudes to play varsity in the future."

The Wrestling team started off the season slow but had some good moments on the wrestling mats. The first part of the season was a foundation for building a good squad.

Four wrestlers advanced out of the Sectionals and on to the Regional match. Tim Doehrman and Kerry Haywood, seniors, were first place champions, while Jesse Lake, senior, and Jason Blackburn, sophomore, finished in second place. Haywood was also Regional champion and advanced to the Semi-State Match. Coach Bouwkamp was pleased with the team's performance. "I was proud of the effort that was put forth at the Sectional Match," commented Coach Bouwkamp.

Despite all adversaries, the team was held together by Coach Bouwkamp and Assistant Coach Scatena. The team kept a good mental attitude toward everyone and everything. All in all, it was an unforgettable year.

What does it take to be a competitive gymnast? A lot of conditioning, endurance, and a good mental attitude. Most important of the three elements is the mental attitude, which was something South's team had plenty of this season. Although the team was made up of mostly underclassmen, Mindy Pape, senior, led the team to many great matches. While the team was made up of mostly newcomers, the coaches were too, but that certainly did not mean they were inexperienced. Head Coach Penny Myers and Assistant Coach Lisa Shlickman brought a great deal of knowledge and leadership to South's young team.

Angela Ottley, junior, commented, "Both coaches helped me a lot. They didn't let us goof off, and we had to be working all the time." Commented on this season, Coach Myers said, "Our major accomplishments this year were our unity as a team. Although we had two major losses, I am very optimistic about next year's team."

Tumblin' Around

Inspiring . . .

"Cheerleading has made me feel more involved at South Side which is important to me during my freshman year. I feel being a cheerleader is a privilege. It is very challenging and rewarding," reflected Erin Kohne.

Last May tryouts for cheerleading were held, resulting in squads of eight Varsity, six Reserve, and five Freshman cheerleaders.

It took more than making the squad to be a cheerleader, it took practice and determination. The cheerleaders dragged themselves up at an early hour to be at practice by six-thirty in the summer. For the new comers, learning chants and cheers took a great effort, but with everyone working as a team, they pulled through.

"Leading the crowd would be easier if there wasn't such an intensive lack of crowd participation!" commented Vickie LaRue.

Even through the toughest weather the girls cheered their hardest during football season. By the time basketball season approached, they were ready to leave the fall weather behind and come indoors.

Their sponsor, Mrs. Linda Simon, summed up by saying, "Cheerleading has been a real learning experience for me. It has been most enjoyable."

They say that one's high school years are the best times in a person's life: Friends are gained, changed, and sometimes lost; dating becomes more a part of life than just a "dream"; independence and more freedom are given from the parents; jobs are being sought after for the first time. High school is a time for many changes and much growth through it all, however, an important element in one's life is claimed—individualism. Individuality is that quality which distinguishes one person from another.

As the four years of high school progress, the discomfort of walking down the hall by oneself or creating one's own style of dress becomes less difficult. A person begins to discover oneself, higher values, and self-respect. Things that use to be important may gradually move to the end of the line.

Yes, high school is a time for change. It's a time for one to begin development of the person he/she may someday hope to see.

SENIORS

Look to the Future

As we concluded our four years at South Side we realize that we have traveled far on a sometimes uncertain path. We've shared great times and good laughs together though not without our difficulties and tears.

The friendships we have made have proven to be strong and valuable. A sense of loyalty and admiration for one another has always been apparent. We have treasured our friendships, though now we realize it is time to discover new treasures.

For many of us "Senioritis" took hold quickly. For some it came after being accepted to college, and for others it came after delivering our hour longs. Many seniors were caught losing interest in class, victimizing underclassmen, and napping whenever possible.

We know that all good things must come to an end and so it is with our high school days. As we reach for our dreams we realize that many of them have taken seed here. Though this was the year of the end of so many experiences, it was also the beginning of many more.

Moving toward our goals we say good-bye to the past and hello to the future, keeping in mind that moments pass quickly but memories last forever.

CLASS OFFICERS

Elected at the beginning of the year, the senior class officers worked throughout the school year to plan and organize various senior events.

These officers meet once a week at 7:30 a.m. during this time they pulled together to discuss and organize the Senior Play, Senior Banquet, Prom, Ivy Day, and fund raising.

With Betsy Colvin as president of the class, Jeff Livensparger as vice-president, Cindy Ditslear as secretary, Julie Dorman as treasurer, and Amy Franciscotty, Josette McPike, and Joy Nielsen as social committee, the year ran smoothly.

Sponsoring the class officers were Mr.

Mendenhall, Mr. Poorman, Mrs. Mendenhall, and Mrs. Rohleder. They advised the officers and approved the activities and their ideas.

President Colvin commented, "after attending four years at South Side, I hope the seniors feel that their last year was most fulfilling in academics, friendships, and good times." Vice President Livensparger added his feeling by commenting, "I am very proud to be a member of such a talented group. Every challenge we faced was to analyze, resolve, and improve South Side in pride and tradition."

go to page 126!

As juniors ended their third year at South, they looked forward with anticipation to their fourth and final year together. Remembering the past year, many things quickly came to mind. Some of these were the Junior/Senior Prom, the inclusion in Philo and Hi-Y and the ominous term paper. Optimistically, they thought ahead to their last year with hopes of meeting any new challenges and demands that might be thrust upon them. Now that their days as juniors were over, they felt confident that the coming year would hold special memories as the senior class of 1987.

The junior class officers included: Whitney Bish, president; Debbie Thatcher, social committee; Betsy Floyd, vice-president; Kelly Reynolds, treasurer; Michelle Porter, secretary; Karrie Bell, social committee.

Sophomores Moving Upward

At the completion of the first two years at South Side the class of 1988 has gained confidence in themselves as well as respect from their teachers and peers.

The Sophomore year was the year that many of us got our driver's licenses, and parents permitting, were able to transport ourselves to and from school and various activities. For many of us this year brought the excitement and uncertainty of dating and improving relationships with members of the opposite sex. Sophomore year has been a year for many new opportunities and freedoms which have lead to new obligations and added responsibilities.

As we look back we are suprised to realize that we have already completed half of our high school career. We look forward with anticipation to moving upward together through our next two years.

Being Freshmen Isn't Easy

Being a freshman was not easy. It was difficult being the babies of the school and being forced to take abuse from upperclassmen. Good tempers and patience were important virtues, keeping in mind, that one day we would be able to exercise our power over other freshmen.

For many of us, this year offered a variety of new experiences and exciting memories, enjoying the great times and difficult decisions. For instance, whether or not to believe in the always popular elevator and pool passes.

Many kids lost their sense of direction when they entered South Side, and often ended up in the wrong room accidentally. But fortunately upperclassmen were always willing to lend a hand. "Oh sure, the cafeteria is right up stairs and to the left!"

At the completion of this year, we looked forward to moving up a step from being freshmen to sophomores

The freshman class officers include:

Faculty and Staff Lend Support

"Mr. Who?"

"Does she really teach that?"

"Ask him . . . but I don't know who that is!"

There are many who day by day and year by year go unnoticed in their efforts in securing the foundation of our education. It is no easy task, this securing of the foundation, and many times it is made more difficult by its crumbling down upon the efforts of those most deeply involved. Those most deeply involved are the staff and faculty members who guide, offer friendship and advice, instruct, and basically keep South Side running.

Although little recognition is given to the teachers, custodians, office workers, administration, cafeteria help, and aides for their almost heroic efforts, these people keep all of the chaos from behind the scenes from entering a student's life so that all we see is the educational machine of South Side churning out an education that will be looked upon in future years as an outstanding asset.

We as students should count ourselves lucky that the faculty and staff of South Side High School are willing to put so much of their time, knowledge, energy, and personal attention into our needs, wants, and education. Their desire to fulfill their duties extends to us their deep loyalty, respect, pride, and long standing tradition of scholastic excellence. All of this enhances our lives so much more. So, while we do not yet realize what we have been exposed to, the future holds the promise that we will gain the patience and wisdom to appreciate. Although this recognition may come too late in some cases, it is worthwhile to finally understand that someone really has cared and made a difference.

With their infinite support and never-give-up-hope attitude, the staff and faculty direct us through the trials and joys of our high school years.

Times: Dare Not To Care

1985-86 is in no danger of being remembered as a year of over-achievement for the school's weekly paper, The South Side Times. However, when things were all said and done, the paper usually did manage to come out, and the problems weren't really as bad as they seemed.

The staff consisted of Mark Clark, senior, editor-in-chief; Craig Chambers, junior, managing editor; Julie Morris and Michelle Porter, juniors, co-news editors; John Stanutz, senior, opinion editor;

The time of the week which was looked to with great anticipation by the staff and it's advisor, Mr. Doug Laslie, was "paste-up" on Monday and Tuesday evenings. this was the time of the week when long hours were put in to ready the publication for it's delivery on Friday. The staff was also kept busy during the rest of the week with the basics such as writing, typing, and proof-reading.

"Working with a bunch of aliens was unusual but never boring," commented Julie Morris, news editor.

Despite tedious problems involving the printers, late deadlines, etc., the staff did manage to achieve some goals. One new feature was the debut of "Inklings," the quarterly literary magazine.

TOTEM

"Where is that story?"

"I told you to take the pictures yesterday."

"The deadline was when?"

Those were some of the reoccurring sayings in the world of Journalism.

Working on the yearbook took time and effort. The rewards came in the end when the yearbook came out, and everyone got to see their hard work in print.

Despite working daily on the yearbook, the staff and editors spent Mondays after school putting on the finishing touches for a deadline, receiving help from their advisor, Mr. Laslie, and occasionally letting out a scream to relieve their tensions.

During the summer, seniors Kim Plasterer, Editor-in-Chief, Holly Hunter, Assistant Editor, and Chris Wesner, Head Photographer, went to a Journalism Institute at Indiana University. There they learned the basics for putting a yearbook together.

With new techniques, imagination, and the help of the staff and editors, the Totem had a productive year.

DARE

(yīr' boōk) n. A book published as a record of the members and activities of the graduating class of a school.

(klōz' ing) To bring or come to an end.

Well, here we are. Another school year has ended and been recorded between the covers of this book. But not every moment can be captured in print. Only each individual can accomplish that.

South Side High School was a second home to many of us. We matured within these walls. All the tears, laughter, good times and bad that were once experienced are alive in our minds only. The 1985-86 school year was a change for everyone, but it was a special year for the graduating class of 1986. Most students would be returning to the halls of South Side to carry on tradition, but for seniors it was different; it was our last. Our last chance to do all and experience all that high school had to offer. It was now or never.

This chapter in our lives is over now, but a new one has already begun. South Side prepared us for the future. She helped form in each of us that special individuality that it takes to make it in the world.

As you look back upon your high school days, remember the experiences, the friendships. Some people say that time cannot stand still, but what is captured between the covers of this book proves them wrong. Take a good look; it only seems like yesterday.

Below: This drawing by Jesse Martin, junior, symbolizes that no matter what your appearance or what you are, we are all entitled to drink from the fountain of prosperity.

Alma Mater

Hail to thee, O South Side High School, Faithful may we be;
Our beloved Alma Mater,
We sing our praises to thee,
May we always well remember
All thy gifts to us so free;
And pay homage to thy memory,
Hail, South Side High School, to thee.

School Song

To the school that has no equal,
To our dear old South Side High,
To whose teams there is no equal,
For you we'll gladly die.
Though the odds may be against you,
We'll still stand for your rights;
And in the end we'll greet you,
Our dear old Green and White.

To Face TOMORROW

Jack -
This baby. What's up?
Well this year has come to an end. I'm very happy to say. You a very funny crazy and good looking "White Boy" :) I am so summer. But I don't want to miss over your love. And
I don't forget me :) See ya this fall.

LOVE ya "88" - I can't wait!
Vrenda Pearson

Jack -
You shouldn't of had
Mike sign your book because I don't think any body else will sign it now. You are a fun guy And I am glad to know
you. Your friend Jeff Daughter

I had Jack (Punk).
When I had more fun playing around this year than I used to
I would throw rocks at you on the way home. We'll have to get together this summer and hit the malls and stuff.
Hey man, that's a really nice picture of you. I'm really impressed with how much more mature you look compared to the rest of them. I hope you take the time this summer to grow a new toe. Or, maybe when we go to the mall some you can wear some sandals. I hope
Sullivan

Jack,
You a funny kid,
glad to have to know you better this year. Goodluck next year on passing chemistry.
Have a fun summer and
don't get into trouble.
Your friend,
chinese Lu Samson

JACK,

40 man, like the years been fresh. To bad
it couldn't last longer.
I know I'm gonna see you out this summer at parties
'and shit, so I won't say
'Bye" I'll just say
"3-DAYS"
chill, cool.

Brian Bolton

Jack -

You have got to be the funniest guy!
You made Algebra class fun + that's hard to do. Thanks for helping me in there. Have a great summer!

Love,

AMY OLSEN

Jack,

Hello.

You're wierd,
but you're a sweetheart. good luck
with the girls, and have a great summer.

Jack,
 May 27, 1986
 You are fun to have in English class. The only wrong is that I don't learn a whole lot.
 Oh well, that's life.
 Be good over the summer
 and come see me at McD's sometime.
